Namibia is located just above South Africa, wedged between Kalahari Desert the chilly South Atlantic. Namibia enjoys both vast potential and promise. Rich in resources and spectacular natural beauty, it also inherited from its colonial and African roots a solid modern infrastructure and a diversity of cultures and national origins. It is stable politically; the Namibians are warm and welcoming. It is unparalleled in its attractions in Africa two of which are the world famous Namib Sand Dunes and Etosha, one of Africa's largest wild game reserves. Tourism is a primary industry — safaris plentiful.
